

The call came I had dreaded
In a moment emotions shredded
On the journey heart like lead
Thoughts drowning in my head
Newborn baby by my side
When she arrived together we cried
I look up at the midnight sky
Today is the day we say goodbye
Through the doors I see your face
Hands on the clock we now chase
You drift asleep without choice
I'll never again hear your voice
Surrounded by love and flowers
I entrust my mum to higher powers
As daylight warms a dark cold night
I imagine butterflies in full flight
In the garden I sit and grieve
A part of me can never leave
This special place of peace and love
A bridge between here and heaven above

ELIZA GREY